

Bipartisan Group Present for Choice Proposal News Conference

State Superintendent of Education Jim Rex (at podium) is joined by a bipartisan group of legislators and K-12 education leaders from across South Carolina on February 7 as he announces a three-year public school choice initiative at a news conference in the lower lobby of Statehouse. Superintendent Rex's proposal is the result of many conversations in recent months, particularly in recent weeks, with K-12 administrators, local school board members, and state lawmakers. The pilot projects he proposes are designed to answer many of the questions and concerns he has heard during those conversations.
